Record Light Vote is Cast Here

1,029 PERSONS OUT OF 13,500 MARK BALLOTS

Good, Prettyman, Williams Nominated by Republicans for Councilmen-at-Large

SHUSTER IS DEFEATED

Haldeman, Republican, and Miller, Democrat, Winners in Fourth Ward

Predictions that the vote cast in yesterday's primary election in the city of Marion would be the smallest ever recorded here were fulfilled last night when returns showed that the total number of ballots reached only 1,029 less than eight per cent of the registration.

Not only was a record established for a minimum of votes but the event was also unprecedented for lack of interest in the returns.

The throngs of election enthusiasts which ordinarily jam the streets when returns are being received were conspicuous by their absence last night. In fact there were fewer people in the uptown district than usual and they had not been attracted by interest in the election event.

Three Contests

There were only three contests for nominations on both Republican and Democratic tickets and this is regarded as the chief cause for lack of interest in the primary.

Mayor Earl M. Hazen was renominated by the Republicans without opposition and William H. Hoberman was unopposed as head of the Democratic ticket.

Although party polls of the city's voting strength shows a decided Republican majority there was comparatively little difference between total votes cast for heads of the two tickets in yesterday's primary. Hazen received 502 votes and Hoberman 467.

The three contests were in connection with nominations for council membership. In the race for Republican nominations for councilmen-at-large the three members of the present council Ralph Good, R. F. Prettyman and A. H. Williams were victorious. William ...

COOLIDGE TAKES PART IN MEMORIAL START

Gigantic Monument on Side of Mount Rushmore Honors Nation's Great

Keystone, S. D., Aug. 10—A memorial of eternity was to be started here today with the president of the United States and all of the most politically prominent in South Dakota participating.

The Black Hills supreme gesture toward national recognition—a gigantic monument honoring Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt—under the guiding hand of Gutzon Borglum, nationally known sculptor was to be formally launched.

The initial action starts this afternoon with Borglum lowered over the mountainside, manipulating the drill.

President Coolidge was expected to inaugurate the undertaking with the first prepared speech he has made in South Dakota. Helping him according to the program will be such state notables as Sen. Peter Norbeck, Governor Bulow, Sen. McMaster and others.

The huge profiles are to be carved out of the side of Mount Rushmore, 17 miles from the summer White House.

According to Borglum's schedule several thousand persons are expected to make the tortuous journey up the mountain pass to participate in the ceremony. The last mile and a half are impassable to motor ... and Mr. Coolidge may make the trip on horseback.

Honolulu Air Derby Fliers Will Forget About Eating Once on Way, Maitland Says

Weather Predictions Favor Contestants; Principal Difficulties May Be Expected in First 500 Miles, Pilot in Epoch-Making Army Flight Declares

Editors Note: Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, pilot of the epochal San Francisco-Honolulu army hop with Lieut. Albert F. Hegenberger here tells through International News Service of the flight problems confronting the Dole contestants who are to take off from Pacific Coast airports Friday.

BY LIEUT. LESTER J. MAITLAND

Washington, Aug. 10 — Navigation likely will prove the most important factor in the Honolulu Air Derby and in my judgment the big prize will go to the best air pathfinder.

Barring mechanical ... against which every precaution ... is being taken, the flight likely will establish a new record time in the neighborhood of 25 hours.

Weather conditions will be a weighty factor in the hazards of the jump but with a moonlight night, as predicted, the risk of losing the course should be considerably reduced. Five hundred miles of our flight to Wheeler field was in the utter black of a moonless night ... celestial observation during most of the night.

Water Most Important

Although food will be regarded by most of the contestants as a supply item of first importance I believe that once they hop off eating will be forgotten until the landing. Drinking water on the other hand, really will be of vital importance.

The principal difficulties of piloting and navigation likely will be encountered in the first 500 miles of the jump. We found it so. Drift from the cross winds carried us at one time so much as 17 degrees off our true course and had not Hegenberger made due allowance for that factor we might have missed the islands. A variation of three and a half degrees from the plotted course will carry the pilot beyond the island to the north or south.

Weather charts indicate the probability of wind from the north or northwest on Friday for the first 500 miles.

At 8:30 o'clock an hour after the crash radio operators from the naval wireless station had succeeded in recovering one body from the still burning wreckage.

The body was badly charred and identification was difficult at once and the second body is expected to be recovered shortly.

They eloped to Hamilton yesterday, and five minutes after they had been married, Smith was recognized by Hamilton police as a fugitive, and rearrested.

Smith, according to authorities here, also is wanted on another charge in Columbus.

Motion of Fisher Body Minority Stockholders Denied

Cleveland, Aug. 10—Attorneys for minority stockholders of the Fisher Body Ohio Co. today were considering plans to carry their injunction suit against the General Motors Corp. to higher court, following dismissal of the case here yesterday by Common Pleas Judge Ewing.

The action was dismissed by Judge Ewing when he ruled that the plaintiffs, F. A. Class, M. M. Spangler and J. P. Hopkins, had failed to prove their allegations that sale of assets for the Fisher Company was unfair and that absorption by the G. M. C. would constitute a violation of the Ohio Corporation Code.

RESPITE MAY BE GRANTED BY GOVERNOR

Sacco Balks Efforts To Take Case to United States Courts

REFUSES TO SIGN WRIT

Men Bid Farewell to Doctor; Electric Chair Ready for Them

State Prison, Boston, Aug. 10—Nicola Sacco, near to a state of collapse in his death cell, today balked efforts to bring his case to the United States District Court.

Weak and sullen Sacco looked up to Attorneys M. A. Musmanno and Alfonso ... and said: "They have crucified me for seven years and I will not give them another chance."

Sacco continued to refuse to sign an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Vanzetti signed the application but told the lawyers that he considered his case and that of Sacco hopeless. He added there was a faint ray of hope that the United States courts might give him and Sacco justice.

Thank Prison Doctor

It was understood that the application could not be filed without the signature of Sacco.

Doctor Joseph McLaughlin, prison physician, visited Sacco and Vanzetti in their death cells today. "They thanked him for his kindness to them and bade him farewell."

Two prison chaplains waited all the forenoon for a call from the prisoners but when none came they left the institution.

Sacco was reported by prison guards to be so weak, as the result of his hunger strike, that he was unable to move from his cot.

Both men began what may be their last day on earth by refusing breakfast. It was Sacco's twenty fifth day of fasting. Vanzetti had been without food for more than a week. Water has been their only nourishment.

Have Given Up Hope

Sacco and Vanzetti were said by those who saw them today to have given up all hope of life. They still protest their innocence of slaying a paymaster and his guard in South Braintree in 1920 asserting that they were convicted because of their radical views, that they go to the electric chair with courage—dying for a principle."

Sacco his eyes fixed on the ceiling of his death cell, awaited the arrival of his wife for her last visit. He believes, prison officials said, that he has seen his boy and girl for the last time.

One prison official stated that Sacco was almost in a coma—that death might cheat the electric chair.

Chair Made Ready

Warden William Hendry stated that he was ready to carry out the death sentence, that the electric chair had been tested by the executioner and that all electric wiring had been gone over.

It was understood that unless there is a last minute respite the death march will begin a few minutes after midnight tonight.

First, to the chair will go Celestino Madeiros who seems, guards said, un...

Executive Holds Conference with Seven Former Attorney Generals

MADEIROS DIES TONIGHT

Justice Sanderson Also Takes Exceptions to His Decision Under Advisement

Boston, Aug. 10—The fate of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti was placed in the hands of Gov. Alvan T. Fuller and seven former attorneys general today.

Judge George A. Sanderson in supreme court took under advisement exceptions taken to his decision denying a writ of error and other legal moves in the world famous case. He told defense attorney, Arthur D. Hill and Attorney General Arthur K. Reading that he would look deeply into the law points to find whether he has "the power and duty" to bring the matter of exceptions before the full bench of the state supreme court. Judge Sanderson added that he would announce his decision tomorrow morning.

Hill Shown Courtesies

Attorney Hill and Attorney General Reading went from the courthouse to the governor's office. Attorney Hill issued the following statement:

"We have been in conference with Mr. Justice Sanderson on a bill of exceptions and are substantially agreed on the form in which the case should go to the full bench of the supreme court if Justice Sanderson decides he has the power and duty to allow it to go. Today we are to put the bill into final shape which means that it will be written out and proper exhibits (affidavits) attached. We expect to see Justice Sanderson tomorrow and obtain his decision. I have been asked to come to the council meeting at the statehouse. Mr. Reading has shown me every courtesy."

Refuse Statements

When a conference between the governor and the attorneys general broke up at 1 P. M. the visitors left the statehouse refusing to make any statement.

At 1:30 P. M. Governor Fuller told assembled members of his council that he would not be ready to consult with them until 3:30 P. M. Meanwhile Defense Attorney Hill waited in the governor's outer office.

Regardless of the action in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, however, indications were that Celestino Madeiros, slayer of an aged Wrentham bank cashier, would be executed a few minutes after midnight. Madeiros "confessed" that the slaying of a South Braintree paymaster and his guard—a crime for which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted—was engineered by Rhode Island gangsters and that Sacco and Vanzetti were not involved. His statement lacked confirmation and was branded a "fake" by Governor Fuller. The New Bedford man already has had five respites and two trials.

No Doubt in Mind

At the statehouse it was said that there was no doubt in the mind of Governor Fuller as to the guilt of Sacco and Vanzetti and the fairness of their trial. He was said to be of the opinion that the law should take its course without further delay—that there had been enough delay already. On the other hand his legal responsibility appeared to be that with new law questions involved action by the full bench of the supreme court could not be anticipated.

The first of the "eleventh hour" new legal moves in the celebrated case was before Justice George A. Sanderson in supreme court today.

The judge had ruled against a defense appeal for a writ of error, a writ of habeas corpus, and a stay of sentence. Today's action centered around exceptions to his ruling. Trial Judge Webster Thayer in superior court had decided against a new trial, and a revocation and stay of sentence. Exceptions were also taken.

May Suggest Respite

If the whole question goes to the full bench of the supreme court, indications were that the governor would suggest a respite to his council. The council is unanimous behind him.

The new court action and the new legal questions involved centered around the alleged prejudice of Judge Thayer. In refusing a new trial Judge Thayer took occasion to state that he had not been prejudiced and had acted fairly at the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti. The advisory committee of Gov...

Lutherans dropped to [illegible] to complete the season and Local Presbyterians lined up in fourth place by handing the United Brethren a defeat.

Although Trinity trimmed Calvary, the score was not at all what was expected. The Baptists scored five in the first frame and two more in the second to lead the Calvary outfit, 7 to 0, but their triumph was short-lived. Staging the greatest rally yet recorded against Trinity this season, the determined Calvary nine came back in the third to [illegible] up a total of nine runs.

When the slugging fest was all over and the proper seven innings had been played, the score stood 16 to 11, with Trinity on top. Jones was [illegible] and Hildebrand did their best for Calvary.

Epworth No. 2 had little trouble with the Lutherans, due largely to the superior pitching of Gamble and the [illegible] play of [illegible] for Epworth. The infield on both teams didn't [illegible] so well with Epworth leading the errors column. Gamble had but one bad inning, the fifth, when the Lutherans scored their two runs. He fanned 10 strikeouts while Neiberger, Lutheran hurler, had only two.

Local Wins

Local Presbyterians shut out United Brethren, 8 to 0, to clinch fourth place in the standing as the league closed. Burke did the pitching.

First Reformed finished fifth by defeating the Presbyterians, 11 to 5, in a slugfest. First Reformed scored at will in all but two innings. Walker pitched for the Presbyterians and Williams was on the mound for First Reformed.

WITH [illegible] Calvary No. 1 [illegible] Wesley M. E. [illegible] Epworth No. 1 [illegible] the [illegible] Sunday School [illegible] [illegible] Epworth Seniors and St. Mary's [illegible] second place.

It will represent the first Sunday School league in the Little World Series.

Forest Lawn Lost

Forest Lawn lost last night to Central Christians, [illegible] as the last place team in the first league, [illegible] places with the Trinity Baptists of the second league next season. Trinity Baptists will move into the first league and Forest Lawn will sink back into the second group at the start of the 1928 season.

Epworth Seniors and St. Mary's both won last night [illegible] Wesley M. E. was defeated. As a result, there is only a two-way tie for second position. Wesley M. E., however, has a chance to break in a tie with the two other teams by defeating John Clark's Epworth No. 1 [illegible] postponed game. Epworth No. 1 has had a tough time winning games during the last round and will probably go down in defeat before Wesley. If Epworth wins it will finish the season in a tie for third place with Wesley. Otherwise, it will tie for third with Presbyterians and Central Christians, with three deadlocked teams between it and the league-leading Calvary outfit.

Calvary Wins

The Calvary-Wesley M. E. game was the best in the first league last night. Corwin, pitching for Wesley, allowed only three hits while Messenger gave only two. Two of Calvary's hits, however, a double and a triple, came in the third frame and counted for two runs.

It took Central Christians eight innings to wade out of a flood of errors and defeat Forest Lawn, 3 to 2. [illegible] pitched for the losers and [illegible] was on the mound for the Christians.

Epworth Seniors Win

Epworth Seniors gained revenge over the Presbyterians by winning 3 to 2 in the final clash of the season. The winning run came in the last of the seventh after Epworth had tied up the score in the fourth inning. Roy Rice pitched for the Seniors with Marx and [illegible] doing the slab work for the losers.

John Clark's Epworth No. 1 team continued to slip towards the bottom of the list by taking the short end of a 1 to 2 count in the game against St. Mary's. It was the seventh defeat of the season for Epworth No. 1.

Here's the standing:

Quality—
where quality belongs
—in the tobacco!

NO pipe smoker figures fine tobacco as an extravagance . . . but it does seem foolish to charge you five cents extra for a bulky pocket tin . . . especially when the new Granger foil package keeps your tobacco in perfect condition.

Quality inside . . . but sensible economy outside that explains

Granger's popular

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

The half-pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents, the foil pouch, sealed in glassine, is ten cents.

I thought I was going to get licked, but I got kissed and a new pair of britches. Grownups are funny.

Peter's Adventures

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

E WIZARD'S WARDROBE [illegible] Ho! Ho!" chuckled Mr. [illegible] and "[illegible]!" shrieked the [illegible] Toad, both the cousins enjoying themselves hugely at Peter's [illegible] The boy joined in the laugh [illegible]

[illegible] Tree Toad, you're [illegible] How do you do it? You [illegible] before my very eyes, and [illegible] sure you have not gone very [illegible] voice sounds close. Where [illegible] I give it up."

[illegible] at the moss covered root of [illegible] of the tree," commanded the [illegible] Peter did as he was told.

[illegible] find you," cried he. [illegible] now I see you [illegible] aren't?" The boy had [illegible] and was about to put his [illegible] Tree Toad when, just as had [illegible] before, his finger touched not [illegible] but only the soft gray [illegible]

[illegible] again!" stammered the boy. [illegible] Tree Toad, if you keep on playing [illegible] upon me like that I shall think that I am growing blind [illegible] You have fooled me long [illegible] You are wonderful. Now stay [illegible] enough for me to look at you. [illegible] Toad, do ask your cousin [illegible] I do so want to make [illegible] with him. I shall not go away [illegible] Plum Tree until I have [illegible]

[illegible] sat down at the foot of the [illegible] leaned his back against trunk. [illegible] as if by magic, there [illegible] appeared the little Tree [illegible]

[illegible] good, sir, here I am and here [illegible] until I think it is time to [illegible] thrilled the clever little [illegible] "Look at me as much as you like. I have Cousin Toad's word for it you are a kind hearted Two-Legs. What color am I?"

"To tell the truth, I don't know!" exclaimed the boy, staring hard at the small wizard. Then he gently touched the fellow on the back. "You are gray here and dark brown here, and it looks as though you might turn white at this spot any second, and it seems to me I see a bit of green and a touch of yellow and, am I mistaken, or are you a bit red between your shoulders? Yet now you don't look just the same as you did a second ago! I give it up! You are a wizard, that is all there is to it. You can slip about like a shadow and change your colors like chameleon. I don't suppose you could tell me how?"

JAMIE LEANED HIS BACK AGAINST THE TREE AND SUDDENLY AS IF BY MAGIC THE TREE TOAD WAS AT HIS ELBOW.

Next: "True Rain Prophet."

If people would only be as proud of their minds as they sometimes are of their legs and arms and muscles.

Boys on Way Home from Southern Tour Visit in Marion

A group of 40 boys from the Y. M. C. A. at Adrian, Mich., enroute home following a tour through the south, were visitors at the Harding home and tomb here this morning.

The boys, aboard two trucks, arrived from Columbus at about 10:30 o'clock and stopped at the Y. M. C. A. before visiting the Harding home, Mt. Vernon avenue and the tomb of Marion Cemetery.

The two trucks started from Adrian last Wednesday and toured through western Ohio and Kentucky viewing Mammoth Cave, there before leaving for home. They were in charge of P. C. Sherman, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of that city.

FLETCHER SEEN AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Marion Congressman Refuses To Discuss Possibility of Seeking Nomination

Although Congressman [illegible] Fletcher is being mentioned [illegible] as a possible candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next year, the reports are not based upon any decision made by him regarding his plans for the future, he stated today at his home, 231 [illegible].

Mr. Fletcher and his wife returned yesterday from Washington, where he has remained on duty since adjournment of congress several months ago. His office in Washington has been kept open for transaction of business relating to his congressional district.

Will Tour District

Mr. Fletcher states that he plans to make a personal tour of his district beginning some time in September for the purpose of discussing matters which have been taken up in correspondence with his constituents. This is in accordance with a plan adopted by the congressman at the beginning of his official service and which he expects to continue while representing the [illegible] district.

"I find that much more can be accomplished by personal contact than through correspondence," the congressman said today.

Matters to be given attention during his tour of the district include pension applications and other interests of his constituents.

To Keep Headquarters Here

The tour will take the congressman into practically every section of the district, he states. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Fletcher and assisted by his secretary, Edward Carl Wrede of Findlay.

While making his tour of the district the congressman will maintain headquarters at his home here.

When questioned regarding reports being [illegible] among prospective candidates for the nomination for governor, Mr. Fletcher stated that he had "nothing to say."

"I am not concerned with politics at this time," the congressman stated. "All of my plans and efforts now are centered in giving the closest possible attention to the interests of my constituents."

Mentioned in Editorial

Congressman Fletcher was recently mentioned in connection with the governorship in an editorial appearing in the Lima Star and similar comments have appeared in other newspapers of the state during the last few months.

One of the latest boosts for the Marion man comes from Cardington in an article appearing in the "Chautauqua Salute," a publication issued in connection with the Chautauqua held there. The article, more than a column in length, reviews Fletcher's service as congressman and describes him as being exceptionally well qualified for the governorship.

Mrs. Fletcher is also praised as an aid of exceptional talent and value to her husband in handling his congressional duties.

Large Number of Kiwanians Expected to Participate In Intercity Meeting Here

Event Will Be Held Aug. 18 at Crystal Lake Park; 11 Committees Appointed To Arrange Program of Entertainment

Definite plans for the entertainment of a large number of Kiwanians who are expected to attend the intercity meeting to be held at Crystal Lake park on Thursday, Aug. 18, are rapidly assuming form with the appointment of the 11 committees who will have the meeting in charge.

Invitations in the form of a letter and accompanied by an attractively printed circular describing the attractions at the park have been mailed to clubs in following cities: Delaware, Lima, Port Clinton, Bellefontaine, Crestline, Kenton, Celina, Bellevue, Wapakoneta, Van Wert, Mt. Gilead, Mansfield, Galion, Sandusky, Carey, Marysville, Columbus, Elyria, Medina, Wooster, Piqua, Norwalk, Ada, Fremont, Springfield, Dayton, Urbana and Findlay.

To Visit Cities

Representatives of the local club will also visit a number of these cities during this week for the purpose of extending a personal invitation and in an effort to create an interest in the meeting here. The gathering will be in the form of a picnic and will also be an official intercity meeting of the third district.

Because of the fact that Marion is at the extreme southern end of the district, invitations have been sent to clubs in surrounding cities who are not in this district in an effort to make the meeting a huge success.

Speakers of the day will be Governor Smith of Dayton and Lieutenant Governor Black of Mansfield. According to word received from Kenton, Kiwanians of that place are making plans to send a large delegation to the meeting here. A committee consisting of Sterling Cheney, J. E. Gasson and W. T. Auger, have been appointed by Carl W. Smith, president of the Kenton club, to make arrangements for the trip.

Emphasize Tomb

In their literature to the outside clubs, the committee in charge are emphasizing the opportunity to visit the Harding tomb and the site of the memorial, and also the many attractions at Crystal Lake park. A feature of the meeting will be a free ride for each child of a Kiwanian on all riding devices at the park with the exception of the roller coaster. Visitors are urged to bring baskets for the picnic dinner, coffee and ice cream will be furnished by the club.

The following committees have been appointed to have charge of the meeting: sports—C. T. Coulter, E. P. Buchman, Dr. A. B. Lawson; prizes—D. C. Nelson, A. A. Van Atta, Dr. W. A. BAD WEATHER DELAYS TWO OCEANIC FLIGHTS

Courtney Ready To Take Off from England, Levine from Paris

Southampton, Eng., Aug. 10—Reports of bad weather off the coast today caused Capt. Frank T. Courtney, British air ace, to postpone his hop-off on the first leg of his transatlantic flight to New York.

Courtney had made all arrangements to take off this morning for Valentia, Ireland, from which place he planned to make his first attempt at westward flight over the Atlantic.

From 7 until 11:30 o'clock Courtney waited at the Calshot Naval Air Depot with his flying boat, "The Whale," in hope that the weather would clear, but the latest bulletins reported rain, fog and wind, so he decided shortly before noon to delay the take off until conditions were more favorable. He said he would fly at the first opportune moment.

HEAVY RAIN HALTS LEVINE'S FLIGHT

Paris, Aug. 10—The heavy rain which began yesterday was still falling today preventing Charles A. Levine, the American transatlantic flier and his French pilot, Maurice Drouhin, from hopping off on their westbound transoceanic flight to New York. They hope to get away from LeBourget Flying Field tomorrow morning if the weather clears.

LOUISE LOUTHAN
ROUTE 2, CHARLESTON, ILLINOIS

The [illegible] ties helped her in various ways [illegible] the next couple of years."—Mrs. [illegible] E. GILLETTE, 555 E. 52nd Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

"I have always been sickly and until I was fourteen my father was very strict about my perfect attendance at grammar school. I have gone to school through hard storms and often taken cold. When I was fourteen I took to my bed and did not get up for eighteen months. Everyone thought I could not live. Just four months ago I began taking your wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I could notice a great change almost at once. Now I feel like a new person. I wish all girls would try Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine."—Mrs. C. M. Additional evidence that [illegible] charge of city affairs have followed a wise course in planning and [illegible] the disposal system was obtained by a group of [illegible] officials who visited a city in Eastern Ohio several days ago before informal council. The trip was made for the purpose of inspecting a new disposal plant installed about a year ago.

In planning and building the disposal system there engineering cost was kept at the lowest possible figure. Although economical at the outset, it [illegible] proved decidedly costly afterward, the Marion visitors were informed. Since the plant in the Eastern Ohio city began operations it has been necessary to expend approximately $10,000 to remedy defects due to engineering mistakes.

Marion has experienced no such difficulties with its plant, officials state. Only a small amount of money has been expended for repairs and alterations since the plant was placed in operation several years ago and none of this expense is traceable to engineering errors.

SUFFERED AFTER EVERY MEAL DUE TO INDIGESTION

Stomach Misery and Kidney Troubles Banished by the New Konjola, Says Marysville Man

The surprising medical compound, Konjola, which The Konjola Man is explaining to crowds of people daily at the Stump Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, has not only become the sensation of this city, but is also the talk of cities and towns throughout this entire section. For instance, just a few days ago, Mr. A. D. Sherman, for 27 years a contractor of Marion, now living at Route 1, Marysville, Ohio, made the following statement about the remarkable recovery Konjola gave him:

"I had a severe case of stomach trouble about 15 years," said Mr. Sherman. "After every meal I was subject to indigestion and all kinds of miseries. My food would ferment and sour. This brought on spells of gas and bloating which made me short of breath and brought pains around my heart. I had dizzy spells and feelings like I would faint. The condition of my kidneys was just as bad as my stomach. I got up very often at nights, which broke up my rest, and always felt weak and sore across the region of my kidneys.

"I had been hearing of Konjola and what this medicine was doing in Marion. I gave it a trial and I want to tell you that I am feeling like I never had stomach or kidney trouble in my life. The indigestion pains are gone, appetite is increased and I never have gas bloating or heartburn like I suffered before. My kidneys are in the best condition they have been in years. Pains never center in my back any more and I don't have dizzy spells. The night rising is ended and there is a great difference in the way I feel each morning. Konjola has certainly changed my whole condition and made me feel years younger, so I gladly give it my indorsement."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy (Stump & Sons), 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.—Adv.

Democrats Also Feeling Reaction of Coolidge Note

They Thought They Knew Who G. O. P. Candidate Was To Be

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Republican politicians aren't the only ones [illegible] by the [illegible] Coolidge [illegible] for 1928.

It [illegible] the Democrats, too.

How best to [illegible] a candidate depends largely on who he is.

The Democrats thought they knew.

They had their main issue all picked [illegible]

Even their secondary issues depended [illegible] on Coolidge.

He vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill. He butted into Nicaragua. He wouldn't call an extra session of congress. He [illegible] protection and left the rest of us to take the [illegible] He was too [illegible]

ALL this ammunition's gone to glory if Coolidge has quit, honest to goodness.

The bunch at Democratic headquarters were frank to say they hoped Coolidge would be renominated, and I think they meant it, if for no other reason than that they hated to see all their plans upset.

Now they're without any definite theory to work on.

Of course they'll evolve something later, but Calvin's left them at a loose end temporarily.

SINCE the Black Hills announcement was made I've jotted down the Republican possibilities I've heard mentioned in quarters exalted enough to entitle them to a certain amount of respectful attention, even if some of 'em do sound like rather remote improbabilities.

Here they are:

Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Senator Hiram Johnson, California; Senator Borah, Idaho; Vice President Dawes, Senator Deneen and ex-Gov. Lowden, Illinois; Senator Jim Watson, Indiana; Gov. Hammill, Judge W. S. Kenyon and Assistant Secretary of War Hanford MacNider, Iowa; Senators Capper and Curtis, Kansas; Senator Norris, Nebraska; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, ex-Secretary of State Hughes and ex-Senator James Wadsworth, New York; Senators Fess and Willis and Speaker Nicholas Longworth, Ohio; Senator McNary, Oregon; Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Pennsylvania, and Senator Pete Norbeck, South Dakota.

SOME of these names are ridiculous, I know.

Imagine Uncle George Norris of Nebraska running for president on the regular Republican ticket!

Nevertheless, they're mentioned.

It goes without saying that the list isn't anything like what it will be later. It's being supplemented every few minutes at present. It'll be six months before the bulk of the suggestions are in, and even then there'll continue to be occasional additions up [illegible]

Many of the [illegible] sustained cuts and bruises.

The parade started with a few hundred men and women who had gathered at the Ashland Blvd auditorium for a protest meeting against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The meeting, although fiery, went off [illegible] under the watchful eye of police reserves and the protestors started for home. The police were lifted [illegible] their guard, having departed for their respective stations. As soon as the police had gone, the men and women reassembled and formed the nucleus of what soon became a threatening horde. As they marched down Madison [illegible] toward the city hall hundreds standing along the curb joined the parade.

The greatest disorder occurred within a stone's throw of the scene of the historic Haymarket riot in which two score police officers went to their deaths.

Haldeman Wins

[illegible] was the Republican [illegible] in the fourth ward [illegible] Edward C. [illegible] Miller defeated John [illegible] for the Democratic nomination in the same ward.

All other nominations were made without contest.

[illegible] were successful in their campaigns [illegible] by having the names of candidates written on the ballots. Under provisions of the election law nominations can be made in this way if the candidates' names are written on the ballots by eight per cent or more of the voters.

Votes cast for these candidates amounted to considerably more than eight per cent and all are now qualified to make the race in November. This was decided last night by the board of elections after a canvass of the returns.

Names Written In

The Democratic candidates nominated for the vacancies are A. T. Speer, named for solicitor, E. J. Seeler and J. E. Sexton, councilman-at-large, J. A. [illegible] Hiller, third ward councilman, J. M. Schneider, fifth ward councilman, and W. C. Stafford, sixth ward councilman.

Several of these candidates polled total votes comparing favorably with the number of ballots cast for other nominees whose names were officially listed on the printed ballots.

The proportion of votes cast in all of the 39 precincts was generally uniform, indicating that lack of interest was prevalent in all sections of the city.

Largest Precinct Vote

Precinct A of the sixth ward led with 77 votes and precinct E of the third ward won the distinction of having the smallest number of ballots. The total was 10 in that precinct and six of these were ballots cast by precinct officials.

Of the 1,020 ballots recorded for the day, 234 came from officials of the 39 precincts.

Although there have been fewer votes cast in primaries in past years, the total of yesterday was the smallest ever recorded in proportion to registration. Records at the board of elections office show that there are more than 12,500 registered voters in the city. This does not include all citizens entitled to vote, according to polls made last year by local party organizations, which total more than 16,000. This indicates that there are approximately 2,500 citizens entitled to vote who have not registered.

Decided Contrast

Yesterday's desultory primary was a decided contrast to the one held two years ago, when 3,092 votes were cast, 2,412 for Republican candidates and 1,580 on the Democratic side. This was an unusual primary record, election officials state. The exceptionally large [illegible]

EACH VOTE CAST HERE COST $2.62

The 1,020 votes cast in yesterday's primary in the city of Marion cost an average of approximately $2.62 each, according to figures obtained from the county board of elections. Total expense of the primary, including supplies and pay rolls, is estimated at $2,700.

which should bring the drift element sharply into the navigators' calculations for the distance.

Thick Fogs Unlikely

It is unlikely that uniform weather will prevail throughout the entire 2,400 mile course, but unless abnormal atmospheric conditions are encountered there should be little if any fog once the fliers clear the United States coastal waters.

In the open sea, about 700 miles out, an easterly wind likely will be encountered to add to the air speed of the flight. We were helped along about 17 miles an hour by the wind, which enabled us to throttle down our engines from about 110 miles an hour to around 90. Contrary to expectations we found the wind stronger at 10,000 feet altitude than between 500 and 1,000 feet.

In preparing for the flight we considered it of importance to keep well in mind the shape of the major islands of the group. Each has a distinctive outline to give a pilot his bearings at sight if he has in mind the relative position of the numerous islands of the Hawaiian group.

Every System Used

We found it unwise to rely too much upon any one means of navigation. Instead, we combined celestial observation, radio bearings, dead reckoning and pilotage, checking one with the other and measuring wind drift at every opportunity.

Allowing a reasonable margin for safety, no one should take off with less than 30 hours fuel supply, or 350 gallons of gasoline.

The successful landing of all the Dole contest entrants would mark a brilliant achievement in aviation. I wish every entrant a triumphant journey.

Warden's Program

[illegible] dogs [illegible] licenses [illegible] thru [illegible] the year and any which have been licensed in 1927 [illegible] the state since that date may be licensed for the remainder of the year for only the regular fee.

Another provision of the law stipulates that dogs shall be locked up or otherwise [illegible] on the premises of the owners at night between sundown and sunrise. The warden or his deputies are authorized to seize any found running at large in violation of this rule.

Protection to Sheep

Rigid enforcement of this section of the statute will greatly reduce sheep losses from attacks by dogs which have amounted to several thousand dollars annually in the past.

Although the law provides a definite schedule of license fees, $1 for male dogs and $3 for females, these rates may be increased by the county commissioners should the dog fund fail to [illegible] a point where sufficient money for paying damage claims on sheep and other livestock is not available.

Sale of dog licenses for 1928 will start at the county auditor's office on Dec. 1. In the meantime, the warden and his assistants will be canvassing the county to round up canines which are not provided with 1927 licenses.

No dogs can be sold or traded without bills of sale being issued at the county auditor's office, this being another new provision of the statute.

The dog warden law was passed by the legislature following a spirited controversy and over Governor Donahey's veto. Its operation throughout the state during the next year will decide whether it will be continued in force or repealed by the next legislature.

GOVERNOR'S ACTION

ernor Fuller found Judge Thayer was "indiscreet" in conversation outside the court room, but was fair and unprejudiced on the bench.

The full bench of the state supreme court does not meet until fall. All seven members were said today to have been notified of the situation with the possibility of an immediate necessity. Only five are needed to make a "full bench."

If "last ditch" moves were exhausted in the state courts today, the Sacco-Vanzetti group of lawyers announced their intentions of a quick rush to the home of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, summer resident of Beverly Farms, on Cape Ann. There was also the possibility of a legal move in the United States District Court.

The only direct word from Governor Fuller was: "With legal proceedings pending before the supreme court, new counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti appealed to me for a respite in order to give that court an opportunity to consider the new legal questions involved and to render a decision. I have taken the matter under advisement."

Sacco and Vanzetti sympathizers [illegible] hope of a respite in view of the fact that the executive council had been summoned to come to the state house today. If the governor [illegible] approval of the council is necessary. However, another report seemed to hinge on whether Judge [illegible] decided to send the matter of exception to the state supreme court full bench.

While the new legal tangle was being unwound, staid old Boston was virtually an armed camp with police mobilized at full strength ready for an emergency, with a "dead line" established at the state's prison, with all public buildings and bridges guarded, with trains and automobile roads watched for bombers and with more than $[illegible] worth of riot insurance issued. Police believed they had nipped a bomb plot directed at the governor.

concerned as to his fate. Sacco would be No. 2 in the short walk across the silent death house and Vanzetti last.

Meanwhile, the prison was under heavy guard, with a special bomb squad of picked men from the Boston Police Department to aid in guarding the approaches to the prison. Machine guns were ready for setting up in the vicinity and equipment of the guards was rifles, pistols and sawed-off shot guns. Flood lights were set up in front of the prison for use tonight.

"Deadline" Set

A motor truck penetrated the "dead line" thrown around the institution by police. It was the "rolling kitchen" of the Salvation Army with coffee and sandwiches for the weary guards.

No person was admitted within the "deadline" without a special police pass and all those without a written pass from the warden were barred from the prison.

Telegraph companies had set up a miniature telegraph station on the prison clubhouse. Wires went to the outside world and over these a few minutes after midnight perhaps will go the news of the passing of Sacco and Vanzetti, a shoe worker and a fish peddler, who have risen to world-wide prominence.

"I have [illegible] have examined the Sacco-Vanzetti case. I am doing everything possible that is compatible with international usage to save the men [illegible]."

After a huge mass meeting this evening in Hyde Park the communist demonstrators will march to the embassy and take up positions as near to the building as the police will allow them.

BUENOS AYRES SHAKEN BY BOMB EXPLOSIVES

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 10—Buenos Ayres was violently shaken by two bomb explosions this morning. Considerable property damage was done, but no one was injured.

The first explosion occurred in the principal entrance of the palace of justice, at 3 o'clock in the morning. The place suffered considerable damage, and houses on the opposite side of the street were badly shaken.

A second bombing occurred in the Velez Sarsfield Station of the western railway, just one minute before a passenger train pulled into the station. The station was damaged.

A third bomb was found between the tracks of the southern railway, but was removed before it exploded.

All of the outrages were believed by officials to have been perpetrated by Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers.

Presumably, the Geneva hotel business has gotten back to normal by this time.

If we are to judge by what some of the doctor writers tell us, we can eat and die of kidney trouble or diet and die of tuberculosis.

It seems that all a young woman motion picture supernumerary has to do to become a star over-night and get her picture in the papers is to file a suit for divorce. Of all known routes to stellar honors it's the quickest.

The presumption is, of course, that the girls buy the gay one-piece bathing-suits not so much to conceal as to offer a little color contrast.

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick says that "prejudice is one of the most starving things that a man can carry around with him." Yet it seems to be the one form of dieting some people really enjoy.

We have no fault to find with Mr. Coolidge's choice of words, but he certainly would have saved an awful lot of guessing had he said: I do not intend to run for president in 1928.

A line in a Keeley Institute advertisement reads: "1926 Was Our Biggest Year Since 1917." Just about everything goes to show the growth of our population as a nation.

For a country which warns Russia that she will not stand for anarchist activity in her domain, France is mighty solicitous about what may happen to anarchists over here.

The reporters out on the Pacific coast apparently are degenerating. They had a fire out there the other day that extended over half the length of the state and not a one of them even so much as intimated that it "rattled dishes."

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler tells us we should listen to the silences, not to the big noise. All right, Nicholas. Subside for a moment that we may learn what Colonel House and those along his line have to say.

Permanent waves are said to cost the country annually four times its bill for naval construction. Goo! If that bill goes through giving the barbers control of the beauty shops, we can see where the country's going bankrupt.

Perhaps nothing better illustrates the carelessness with which people buy liquor than the case of the New Yorker who paid two colored men wearing Pullman porter uniforms $400 for a box containing liquor they alleged they had smuggled in from Canada only to find, upon opening the box later, that it contained bricks. With the country full of easy marks like that it's little wonder that selling anything for liquor has become a profitable business.

Drunken Driver Law with Teeth.

It will be the part of wisdom for all owners or drivers of automobiles to study the new state law relative to driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. It has real teeth in it, and is so worded that they can be utilized not only to punish a drunken driver, but also the drunken owner being driven by a driver who may not be under the influence of liquor.

For the first offense the penalty may range anywhere from $100 to $500, or imprisonment from thirty days to six months, or both. And no matter what the fine, or the prison sentence, or the fine and prison sentence combined may be, conviction deprives the owner or driver of the right to drive for six months. This barring of the use of the car in case of conviction is not optional. It is mandatory. One who drives a car while under suspension is liable to imprisonment from six months to a year.

For a second offense, the additional penalty is the loss of the right to drive for any period set by the court ranging from one to five years.

It has been expressly pointed out that, whereas heretofore the intoxicated owner of a car who secures a sober driver to handle his car for him was subject to a fine of $25 only, under the new law judges can place full responsibility upon owners whose cars are operated in violation of law.

There is no greater menace to the public, either to motorists or pedestrians, than the drunken driver. Not only is he a menace to other motorists and pedestrians alike, but a menace also to himself. To some, the provisions of the law may look severe, but laws of lesser severity have failed to check the menace of the mixture of whisky and gas. The new law may not convert those addicted to driving when inebriated to the error of their ways, but it will keep them from being menaces to traffic for long periods, and in that way, if in no other, prove a safeguard to the public.

The traffic toll through lack of skill in driving, through fright, through carelessness, through mechanical disability is sufficiently great, appallingly great, without having it complicated and increased by drunkenness.

The Primary, a Tragedy.

There was a time when this was a government by majorities. It is such no more. It hasn't been since the advent of the primary. Today we are governed by minority rule. Our candidates are placed in nomination by minorities of the parties they are supposed to represent. For a time after the adoption of the primary system our candidates were elected by a majority of the majority, but that time also is past. Today all candidates not only are chosen by minorities, but they are elected by majorities or pluralities, as the case may be, of minorities. By this we mean that they do not represent a majority of the voting strength.

No better illustration of the utter worthlessness of the primary system could be had than that offered by the vote cast in this city Tuesday. The voting strength of the corporation is something over 16,000 and over 15,500 voters are registered and qualified to vote, yet in all the city the combined vote of the members of the two old parties yesterday was but 1,025. In other words, only one out of every sixteen of the city's polled voting strength of 15,212 went to the polls to put into nomination candidates for this fall's municipal election. The cost of the primary is estimated at $2,700, which means that each of the 1,025 votes cast cost the tax-payers of the city $2.70.

The primary as a method of nominating candidates has fallen into such disrepute that fifteen out of every sixteen of our citizens of voting age refused to go to the polls. People living across the street from polling places did not go to them. People living next door to them remained away. In fact, people upon whose premises polling places were located refused to participate in the primary, their manifest intention being thus to emphasize their lack of appreciation for the primary system.

The primary, another of the alleged cure-alls of political ills advocated and put over by the so-called reformers, has been a curse to the country ever since its authorization by law. Year after year it has lessened interest in the election of the officials who are supposed to look after our affairs. The decline in interest has been a consistent and steady one, each primary election making of the primary system a thing for greater and greater reproach. It has doubled the expense to the candidate and to the electorate. It has impaired the quality of our official life. It has driven from the minds of many citizens of high standing any and all thought of candidacies for political preferment. It has in no way lessened opportunity for manipulation, but has greatly encouraged and increased political corruption. It has changed government by the majority to government by the minority. It has not proved anything it was held out to be, but has proved everything it should not be. We might refer to it as a joke were it not so much of a tragedy.

The Washington Star says bootleggers are usually caught because they are always in a hurry and thus attract the attention of authorities. They have to be to make the rounds of the so-called good, law-abiding citizens who look to them for their liquid refreshment.

Apropos of the suggestion that crime stuff be kept off the first page, it may be well to ask if the plan contemplates the barring of a lot of the political dope written by special correspondents.

There's an old one to the effect that we have to go away from home to get the news, but maybe we can get it just as well by having it brought to us from abroad. Anyway, Viscount Astor, after making a survey of prohibition, says "the general use of intoxicants is gone in America forever," and we are more than half inclined to believe that he is right. Had he said real liquor, we would just about feel sure of it.

State road construction contracts aggregating $5,000,000 were let down in Columbus one day last week. The automobile has worked a marvelous change in our conception of expenditures. Twenty years ago letting $5,000,000 worth of road contracts would have come close to creating a riot.

The Detroit Free Press is inclined to twit General Dawes over the fact that he has not yet reformed the senate. The Free Press should be fair. The general never sought to reform the senate, only the senate rules. Charlie hasn't any fool notion that he's a worker of miracles.

While it may be true that the late Vice President Marshall's statement, that the country needed a good five-cent cigar, was responsible for the return of the "smoke" at that price, let us not harbor any unkindly feeling. It's hardly probable that he could have conceived the thing which has been unloaded upon us.

Eight students seized in the act of blowing up a bridge over in China to delay troop movements were immediately beheaded. Anyway over in China education doesn't always pay.

We suppose that when the two rum-runners, who deliberately murdered a dry officer in Florida waters, a day or two ago, after he had taken possession of their vessel, and later killed a federal secret service operative, come up for trial there will be the customary number of maudlin sentimentalists and sob-sisters who will bemoan any and all attempts of the law "to take human life" and work off upon an unoffending public the usual run of rot they customarily let out of their systems at such times and upon such occasions.

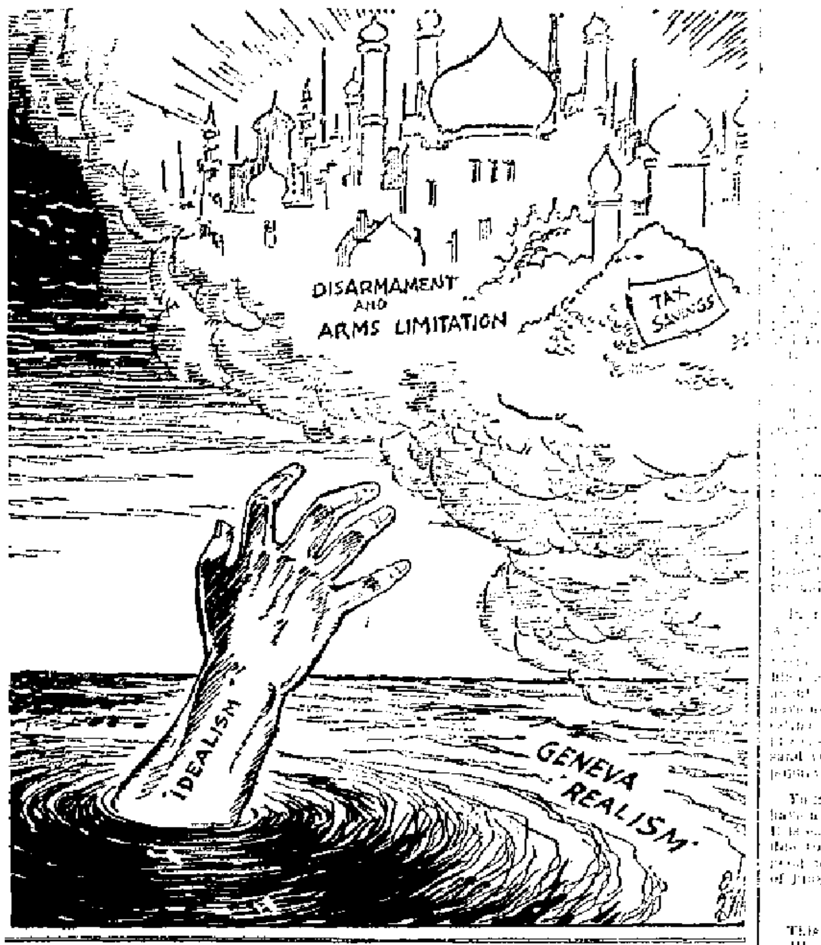
JUST ANOTHER BEAUTIFUL MIRAGE.



Seeking Causes of Rheumatism.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There are few ailments more familiar than those described as "rheumatic." "Rheumatics" are almost as common as old age.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if you should wake up some morning and not have one single pain in your body? Don't you recall those days in your youth when you had no aches, or pains, no headache or backache, or other feeling of discomfort? They were great days, but you didn't half appreciate them!

Civilization has given mankind an endless number of privileges, comforts and luxuries. Unfortunately civilization has imposed on mankind a good many uncomfortable penalties.

To escape the discomforts of civilization, knowledge is essential. Not only must we have knowledge, but we must apply it. Unfortunately, will-power does not coincide every time with knowledge. A friend of mine says he "can resist everything but temptation." He knows there are things he should not do, but confesses he can not resist their lure.

It is because we neglect to do the vital things that many of our ailments come. It is because we leave undone things we ought to do that other of our troubles arise.

Rheumatism is looked upon now as the result of an infection. The seat of the painful symptoms may be in the back. In this case it is called "lumbago." It may be a "stiff neck." The trouble may be in one or more of the joints.

But no matter where it is, whether in muscles or joints, the real cause may be far away. It may be that pus-filled tonsils, abscessed teeth, a fermenting and diseased intestine, is the location of the trouble responsible for the rheumatic symptoms.

There is a painful and serious disease called "rheumatic fever." This comes on as suddenly and is as upsetting as the other infections or contagious diseases.

There may be chilliness or a more pronounced chill. This is followed by high fever and swelling of one or more joints. Pain, swelling, difficult movement, redness and heat of the involved joint are added to the misery of the victim.

The suffering is intense. The slightest movement is extremely painful.

Such an attack as this requires the skillful care of the best physicians. For the simple forms of so-called rheumatism, where there is no fever, there are some home measures which will be useful.

Rest in bed, keeping the painful part still, will help a lot. Hot water application will do much to relieve the pain.

When the acute symptoms disappear, be sure to have a search made to find what is wrong with your system. Somewhere there is a center of infection.

Editorial Comment.

ROUMANIAN POLITICS AND AMERICAN MONEY.

If there is any reason why the Roumanians should want Prince Carol for their king, our information is very defective. The most conspicuous fact in his life, as known to the world, is that he has deserted two women and his children and seems now ready to desert another. He also deserted his country and such duties as were incident to the heir apparent of the Roumanian crown. He has pursued his own appetites and desires and put them before his duties to his country and his dynasty.

If this encourages the Roumanians, they have curious requirements for kingship.

Of course, there are always the outs in politics and Bratiano is a masterful man who has deadly enemies. Carol may be used as a rallying point for the politicians who are not now reveling in the perquisites of power and office. He is said to have many friends in the army. Officers who have not had what they deem their deserts from the ruling regime may be able to get up a legitimist revolt. Toasts to Bonnie Prince Carol will be pledged and all that sort of thing. It may come to blows, but the suggestion that the much needed foreign loan is less likely to be made to Roumania under the strong hand of Bratiano than to a Carolingian government is rather quaint. Certainly the fortunes of Roumania under Carol are not likely to be peaceful.

In fact, we think American money can find safer and better "ides" than the Roumanian state under either regime.—Chicago Tribune.

THE DULL BOY.

Welcome news for the boy who is slow in his school work has come out of a Teachers' conference in England. * * * * * It is comforting to know that somewhere there is abundant sympathy for the overgrown, inattentive, stupid boy. The Morning Post reports that at the Margate conference "there was positive glorification of the child who is dull at school."

It was said that classification of children by age alone is unsound. "Native ability, the power to progress, environment, home surroundings, medical record, and often the condition of the school" should enter into the question. No two children are born with exactly like capacities or with equal power of advance.

Geniuses who were classified as dunces in their youth were cited for the defense of the dull boy. "Sir Walter Scott's headmaster said he had the thickest head in the school. The mother of Hume, the historian, said that in her opinion he was weak-minded." Chatterton and Fanny Burney were rated very low in their schools. Coming down to this day and age, it was said that even Mr. Churchill himself was far from carrying off all the prizes at Harrow.

With so much aid and comfort to be offered by pedagogues themselves for the boy who does not receive high marks at school, one is tempted to look hard at the "bright boys" of the class. If so much genius is recruited from the ranks of apparently dull children, the star pupils will have to look to it that they themselves do not come to that bad end which is the fate traditionally in store for the wearer of the dunce cap.—New York Times.

GROWTH OF SUMMER SCHOOLS.

What is technically called the movement for adult education may not consciously embrace the summer courses in the universities, the smaller colleges, the high schools and the other educational institutions of the country. The fact is, however, that the so-called summer school, the growth of which has been rapid and gratifying, is becoming an important factor in adult education.

Teachers in public schools take summer courses in universities and colleges to keep abreast of the world's scientific and intellectual progress. This tends to improve teaching standards and to prevent [illegible] in the schoolroom. The total enrollment [illegible] summer schools this year is estimated [illegible], as against but about a decade ago [illegible].

Views of Those in Public Eye.

PROFESSOR ASAPH HALL, JR.

Professor Asaph Hall, Jr., retired commander of the United States navy, and for many years astronomer at the United States naval observatory, was born at Cambridge, Massachusetts, October 6, 1859. Given his degrees at Harvard and Yale, Professor Hall became assistant at the naval observatory in 1903. Later he became professor of mathematics in the navy and professor of astronomy at Georgetown university. He is a member of a number of societies of mathematicians and astronomers, and a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Professor recently spoke of the coming transit of mercury next November. He said:

"Mercury has greater variations of heat and light than the other planets, and it cuts across the earth's orbit either in May or November at intervals that sometimes run into thirteen-year periods.

"The May transits are less than one-half as numerous as the November transits, another is possible within seven years, probable within thirteen years and practically certain within 46 years.

"In other words, after the transit this coming November, there may not be another November transit for forty-six years, though it may recur within seven and in all probability will recur within thirteen years. For the May transits, the repetition in seven years is not possible and often there is not a recurrence in thirteen years.

"There were transits of Mercury on November 12, 1907, partly visible in the United States. On November 6, 1914, there was one also partly visible in the United States, and the last transit was on May 7, 1924.

"The earth is moving around the sun in an ellipse, which makes it seem as if the sun were moving around the sky. All the planets have small inclinations toward the orbit of the earth around the sun, or toward the parent orbit of the sun in the sky.

"Of all the planets, Mercury has the greatest inclination toward the sun. It has the greatest eccentricity of all of them, which means that its ellipse is more elongated than any of the other ellipses in which the planets move around the sun. In consequence, there are greater variations of heat and light on Mercury.

"Mercury's transit across the sun scheduled for November 9-10, is the first to occur in [illegible] years."

Use Lemons to Whiten
Your Skin

Better than Expensive "Bleaches"

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough.

CHAPTER XVIII

LER SMYTHE bent hastily to pick up the letter which had [illegible] out of his pocketbook. When [illegible] his head his cheeks were [illegible] with color, and Vee-Vee averted [illegible] hastily. If she pretended [illegible] had not seen the name on the [illegible] he could not be be sure that [illegible]

"Shuler B. Smith"—those were [illegible] her eyes had picked up [illegible] Shhe had not meant to [illegible] the letter was not his—[illegible] was too much similarity in [illegible] to make coincidence seem reas[illegible] Smith—Smythe. Of course [illegible] who looked so distinguished—[illegible] the plebian name of Smith, [illegible] in his changing it to the romantic version—Smythe? But [illegible] Schuyler. Well, why [illegible] asked herself angrily. What [illegible] matter anyway?

"[illegible] you know," he told her, almost doggedly, and for a moment she [illegible] he was referring to his [illegible] name. "Now you know why [illegible] hoped! Can you wonder that I [illegible] God had answered a poor, [illegible] fool's prayers when I looked [illegible] my luncheon and saw you [illegible] for five years I've followed your [illegible] career—"

[illegible] reawakened curiosity seized upon [illegible] word—career. Was this other girl whom she so strangely resembled, an actress? But he had said [illegible] rich. Of course an actress [illegible] be rich—

"[illegible] loving you all the time, collecting [illegible] of you. Why, Vee-Vee, I [illegible] scrapbook full of you and your triumphs and—and your wed-[illegible]"

His voice dragged on the word, [illegible] it hurt him, and his mobile [illegible] twisted downward with pain. "How I hated that man they [illegible] you marry! Auctioned off for a [illegible]!"

"[illegible]op! You mustn't say anything [illegible]" Vee-Vee cried, hardly knowing [illegible] she stopped him. If she let him [illegible] she would discover who it was they all mistook her for; the [illegible] would be solved. And of [illegible] she wanted it to be solved—But [illegible]? If she said to him, at last, [illegible] he could not let him deceive [illegible] any longer, "I am just an ordinary stenographer. I have never married. You have seen me only [illegible] before in your life and you didn't [illegible] the tribute of a second glance, [illegible] I was homely, bespectacled, [illegible]shioned girl. My name is really Victoria Cameron. There is no [illegible] and mystery about me. I am [illegible] girl you have loved for five [illegible]" it would be over, over!

"[illegible] stop, but I won't say I'm [illegible]" Schuyler Smythe said stubbornly. "I had to tell you. I'll leave Min[illegible] tomorrow if you tell me to, [illegible] can't send me so far away that [illegible] stop loving you. Shall I go?"

"[illegible] think we're both crazy, I for listening to you and you for telling me [illegible] impossible story," Vee-Vee [illegible] almost severely. "I came here to [illegible] myself, everything, not to—to—" Her voice broke, as if she were [illegible] to burst into tears. But the [illegible] was that she could not go [illegible] the first deliberate lie she had [illegible] Every moment she was [illegible] frank confession farther out of [illegible]

"[illegible] I go, take myself away where [illegible] remind you of the past?" Schuyler demanded tensely, his eyes burning, [illegible] his mouth twisting with pain. [illegible]-Vee drew a sharp breath. [illegible] shakily, "I—I have no past, [illegible] Smythe. Only the present—[illegible] future."

"[illegible] you adorable thing!" [illegible] huskily, his hands going so [illegible] to her shoulders that she did [illegible] time to evade them. His face [illegible] touching hers, his breath [illegible] eager upon her face.

"[illegible] Not—yet!" Vee-Vee [illegible] her head backward so [illegible] but was crushed against [illegible] of the car. "Remember, Schuyler, I haven't been—carrying—[illegible] for five years!" It was [illegible] of her voice to betray her like [illegible]

[illegible] he decided, wrenching [illegible] away from her, his hands closed [illegible] the steering wheel. "If only [illegible] gossip of a Mrs. Bannister [illegible] out of the bag, [illegible] New York that you are here—"

[illegible] They say he's looking [illegible] But [illegible] he demanded fiercely.

She slit the envelope with one quick thrust of her nail file.

"No," Vee-Vee answered [illegible] truthfully. "I'll never go back [illegible]"

Suddenly the game seemed thrilling in its dangerousness. Wouldn't the girls at the office gasp if they could see her now?

"I think I'd like my tea," Vee-Vee said demurely.

"Would you, you darling?" Schuyler Smythe laughed, his voice ringing out exultantly. "Then you shall have it, and anything else in God's world that I can give you. Do you think you know a lot about being loved and wooed, my princess? Well, I'll prove to you that you don't! I'm going to woo you as you've never been wooed before!"

Out of the great cornucopia of wisdom which her Aunt Flora had heaped up for her to use in this game of husband-getting a pearl rolled out now, rattled around in Vee-Vee's mind until she seized upon it: "Make him think you are unattainable, that you have had so many sweethearts, so many proposals that his cannot interest you. But don't be too convincing!"

So Vee-Vee said, a smile tugging at the dimple in the corner of her adorable mouth, glinting in the [illegible] of her eyes: "I shall never fall in love again!" That was treason, she told her conscience, for she never expected to love anyone but the man beside her.

When they reached Snyder's roadhouse, on the far side of the lake, they found Mr. and Mrs. Bannister rather impatiently awaiting them and bored with each other. Mrs. Bannister pounced upon them, her eyes alight with the insatiable curiosity and suspicion of the inveterate gossip.

"You two must have got lost," she crowed. "We've been drinking pot after pot of tea. The cinnamon toast here is really divine, Miss—Cameron." She turned upon Vee-Vee, hesitating as usual upon the name, suggestively. "I declare, I have to catch myself every time. It's such a temptation to call you Vivian. After all, I am but older than you, though everyone says I don't look a day over twenty-five."

Vivian! The name rang a bell in Vee-Vee's mind, but the memory it evoked was too faint for her to catch. So the other girl—the girl whom Schuyler Smythe had been in love with for five years, the girl who had been sold by her family to a titled foreigner, the girl whom she herself resembled as if she were that girl's twin sister—was named Vivian. That accounted for the similarity of initials, at least for the sameness of the first initial. And Mrs. Bannister had eyed the tiny "V. C." upon her luggage before she had jumped to the conclusion that Vee-Vee was this other girl. Vivian C. Was the "C" the initial of that other girl's maiden name or her married name? Oh, it was all a silly puzzle and she had no time to solve it now.

"I'd rather you did not call me Vivian—for obvious reasons. While I am here that is not my name," Vee-Vee answered evasively. "My name—" and she was glad to be telling the truth, though it did not sound like the truth—"is Vera Victoria Cameron. My friends call me Vee-Vee," she added.

"How cute!" Mrs. Bannister gushed. "My first name is Rita. I'd adore having you call me that. Cinnamon toast and tea for you, too, Schuyler?" she asked coyly. "Or will you have the same kind of tea that this terrible John of mine has been drinking?"

"Ceylon for me—and cinnamon toast," Schuyler told her, frowning slightly.

It was seven o'clock when they arrived at the hotel, Schuyler's car dexterously leading the way. The two couples had kept within [illegible] distance of each other during the [illegible] drive after tea, an arrangement [illegible] agreed upon by Vee-Vee and acquiesced in rather sulkily by Schuyler.

"But I suppose you're right," he admitted grudgingly. "That [illegible] the gossip will have us the talk of the hotel if we don't take care. And that would be dangerous. Any [illegible] could carry the story to New York and even a [illegible] I'm not ready to have your [illegible] or father pounce on us just yet."

"No one dresses for dinner here on Sunday night," Schuyler told her, as he helped her to alight [illegible] "Don't stay away. We'll [illegible] No [illegible] now." [illegible] room closes at eight. There won't be [illegible] time."

"I want to freshen up a bit," Vee-Vee told him. "I'll be down at half [illegible] You sit at Miss Fosdick's table, don't you?" he added.

"Not any more!" Schuyler retorted [illegible] but he thought she detected [illegible] shadow of fear or uneasiness darkening the glow in his brown eyes.

When Vera reached her own room, she tossed her hat to the bed, then flew to the mirror to watch her lovely flawless complexion to see if the warm June sun had brought out pale ghosts of her old freckles. She could have sobbed with relief when she saw that, except for a faint flush of excitement, her cheeks were still as white and smooth as [illegible] gardenias.

"I mustn't take any chances," she [illegible] as she smeared her flushed [illegible] with cleansing cream to remove [illegible] dusting of pearl-tinted powder, preparatory to "making up" afresh.

She was rummaging in the drawer [illegible] absorbent tissue paper when her [illegible] encountered Jerry's mysterious [illegible] which he had hurried to the [illegible] to give her as she left to seek [illegible] She threw it out, weighed it thoughtfully in her hands, held it up to the light and saw the indistinct outline of a picture. So she had guessed right. Jerry's fears for her had centered around her amazing likeness to the woman from whose printed portrait he had modeled the beauty which he had created for her.

"I'm going to open it!" she decided suddenly, overcome by curiosity. "I have a hunch that Jerry would call my present situation a jam."

She wiped the cold cream from her fingers, then slit the envelope with one quick thrust of her nail file.
